

Dear Dr. Stokes,

I am writing to urge you to adopt new non-animal test methods immediately. Animals should not continue to suffer and die. Many of the tests on animals are cruel and irrelevant to humans.

Government agencies should use in vitro cell culture tests to completely replace the use of animals in lethal dose tests. This change should start immediately.

There are too many innocent animals that are suffering because of these tests.

I hope you will make the right decision and implement non-animal tests immediately.

Sincerely,

Kelly Lynne Kelly
